CHARLES E. FISH, Principal.

Proficiency is indicated in five grades, by the letters A, B, C, D, E.

A represents practically perfect work. It is a mark of special distinction and seldom conferred.

B represents satisfactory work, and is what the average student should aim to receive, but must not always expect.

C represents work not good enough for special commendation, nor so poor as to call for special complaint.

D represents work not satisfactory and implies that improvement is necessary.

E represents very unsatisfactory work. Students of this grade will be dropped.

Faithfulness and effort are indicated in three grades, by the figures 1, 2, 3.

1 indicates satisfactory faithfulness and effort.

2 indicates spasmodic effort.

3 indicates indifference.

No student shall be considered a candidate for a scholarship who gets C in more than one subject.

No student shall become an Honor [illegible]

FOREWORD

As Exeter celebrates its 200th birthday, it is only fitting that the PEAN should capture the special spirit of the Bicentennial year. We have devoted sixteen pages explicitly to the Bicentennial celebration. At the same time, we again observe the traditional features — senior section, student activities, athletics, student and faculty candids — so important to capturing the vitality of Academy life. Each page reflects our pride in Exeter.

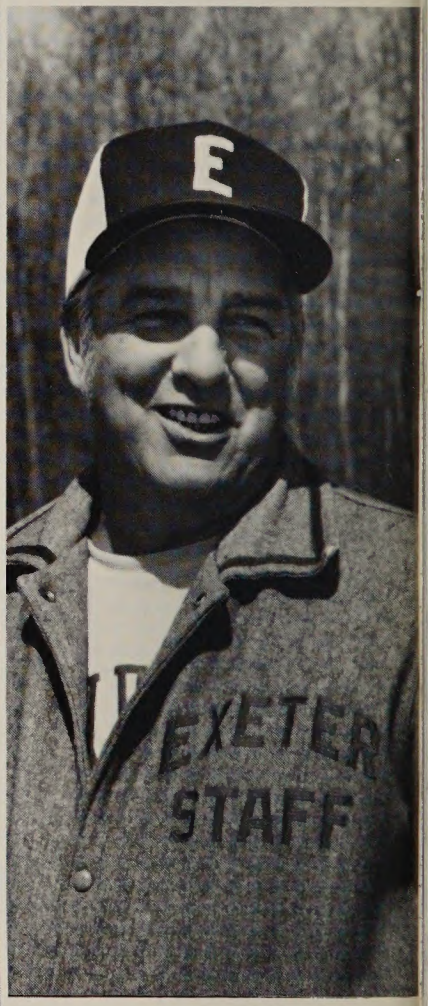

We hope that this, the largest edition of the PEAN, will help alumni remember their days at Exeter, and aid those soon to join the ranks of alumni in recalling this year in the future.

Dedication

Theodore Reilly Seabrooke Jr. was born on February 21, 1921, in Minneapolis, was graduated from high school in Maywood, Illinois, and received his B.S. degree in Physical Education from the University of Illinois in 1942. After teaching for three years in Granite City, Illinois, he joined the Exeter faculty in the fall of 1945. Born and brought up a Midwesterner, he spent the last thirty-five years of his life serving this New England school.

Mr. Seabrooke showed great enthusiasm for everything he did, be it teaching preps to wrestle or coaching championship teams. He was best known for his expertise in wrestling, but his talents extended to football and lacrosse. On all levels, he knew how to get the most from his athletes.

Never too busy to help with a problem, he took a personal interest in each student. He listened thoughtfully and helped students through times of trouble. Mr. Seabrooke also loved to recount colorful experiences, especially wrestling matches. His endless supply of anecdotes lightened difficult moments and held the attention of generations of Exonians.

The loss of Mr. Seabrooke is felt by everyone who knew him. More than a teacher, he was also a friend. To him we gratefully dedicate the Bicentennial edition of the PEAN.

In Appreciation

The list of people who have helped us is almost endless. We would however like to extend our special thanks to several people who have been invaluable in preparing the book.

Mrs. Flora Goodrich and Mr. James Del Buono, as well as the rest of the Accounting Office staff willingly answered our queries and tolerated our numerous errors. Mr. Paul Sadler, Jr., Director of Publications, provided us with many photographs, including all that appear in the Face Book section. Without the many hours that Mr. Edourd Desrochers spent in the Academy Archives with us, the old photographs and documents in our Bicentennial section could not have been brought to print. The Alumni Office, especially Mrs. Elizabeth Terry, provided the lists and address labels which have so greatly simplified our jobs. Their advice on soliciting contributions has permitted us to expand the book to its present length. Whenever we needed to stuff P.O. boxes, Mrs. Helen Richard and Mr. Roger Desjardins at the Academy Post Office always lent a hand and tolerated the confusion we added.

We would also like to thank Mr. Guy Garon and the Hunter Publishing Company. Mr. Garon made himself available whenever his assistance was needed.

Finally, we would like to express our sincerest gratitude to Mr. Douglas Rogers, our faculty advisor. This year, his role was much greater than in the past. We hope he will continue to work with the PEAN.

GIRLS' CROSS COUNTRY

Row 1 — B. Shapiro, S. Korsak, S. Drouilhet (Capt.), P. McKay, E. Dueger, B. Schmidt; Row 2 — M. Lawlor, C. Margerum, A. Krulak, S. Funkhouser, K. Orvik, Coach Parris

With the two veterans, Sue Drouilhet and Peggy McKay, guiding and influx of nine new members, the Girls' Cross Country Team proved its third season to be the most successful yet. Trouncing six opponents, among them Portsmouth H.S. and Hyde (each defeated by PEA for the first time), the girls held a solid final record of 6 wins and 2 losses. Although Northfield — Mt. Hermon and Andover defeated PEA, the red put up a good fight. Versus Andover, lower Moira Lawlor, upper Beth Schmidt, upper Sam Korsak, Senior/captain Sue Drouilhet, and upper Betsy Shapiro led the Exeter squad, picking up places 2-4-6-8-10; Sally Funkhouser, Kirsti Orvik, Peggy McKay, Amy Krulak, Christine Margerum, and Erica Dueger also showed top performances. Exeter lost to Andover by only 5 points, a meet which the big blue thought to dominate easily.

The Interscholastic Championships were at Hyde this year. Once again the red faced Andover and N-MH on a course covered with slick mud. The Exeter girls ran well; placing in the top fifteen (out of more than 100 participants) Schmidt, Korsak, and Lawlor received medals for seventh, eleventh and twelfth places, respectively. Finishing third overall, Exeter showed great spirit screaming a grand "Ogga logga chi" with Andover, the Interschol victors.

Since only two team members were seniors, coach Richard Parris looks forward to another exciting season next fall. Co-captains elect Schmidt and Korsak hope to lead PEA runners in bringing home the championship.

BOYS' CROSS COUNTRY

Cross Country this year had a mixed season with a record of 4-5 and coming in third place in the New England Interscholastic Championships.

High points of the season included Sean Lawlor's two record breaking performances: breaking our school record by seven seconds with a time of 15:27 and smashing Andover's course record with a time of 14:21 and an individual first place.

Disappointments for the team were due in part to the injuries sustained by key members, Captain Jonathan Bean, senior Phil Johnson and Upper Jon Baker. Necessary depth needed to win and race was provided by veteran runners Bill Boesch and Bill Sherman and new runners Chris Jungheim and Mike Morrissey.

Coach Dimmock led the team in the pre-season camping trip to Lake Winnipesaukee with the Girls' Cross Country team, picking apples in Stratham, and making cider in Brentwood which added to the high spirit of the team. Captain Bean led the team in such escapades as attacking the Girls' Varsity Soccer Team, victimizing innocent tour guides, and raiding the Hydro-Massage, Sub-Aqua therapy tanks.

Captain-elect Jon Baker and Coach Dimmock look forward to another high spirited season next year.

FIELD HOCKEY

Row 1 — H. Mason, S. Jones, L. Dillenbeck, L. Schwartz, J. Truslow, S. Good; Row 2 — B. Trowbridge, J. Fritts, J. Harris, K. Fritts (Capt.), K. Jaffin, A. Carter, Coach Taft; Absent — P. Westerfield.

Returning to Exeter in September, we were challenged to pull ourselves together fast enough to play a game in three days. We managed, somehow, to not only play a game but to make Amesbury work hard for their win. As we watched ourselves play good hockey with apparently no effort we thought we just might have a good season.

With three losses and four ties, we were not exactly undefeated. But we were a good team. More than anything else the 1980 field hockey team was a TEAM. We worked hard together, and supported each other. There were no superstars because every girl was a good hockey player. Games were won and lost, goals scored by the team together. High spirits, enthusiastic coaching, and pumpkin smashing brought the team together to win. We reached our peak towards the end of the season when we beat Governor Dummer 2-0 and two days later squashed Andover 2-0.

Many thanks to Phoebe Davis and Marty Taft for their superb coaching, support, and never-failing smiles. Watch out for next year's team with ten returning lettermen led by captains-elect Lee Dillenbeck and Laura Schwartz. They are going to be fantastic. Good Luck!

The Girls' Varsity Soccer team this year was a balanced, mutually supportive one. Their finale with Andover showed the improvement they worked for. The enthusiasm couldn't have been better.

A promising group of Uppers and underclassmen were guided through the season by some experienced Seniors. J.V. had an excellent record which showed their hard work and tough coaching. They lost only two games, both to teams they also beat. They are encouraging material for next year.

This year's captains were Thalia Gould and Leigh Polk, who have a combined seven years of PEA soccer experience. The MVP was Gould, and she was also Best Offense. Best Defense was Senior Sarah Corrin. Three year player Anne Ready converted from fullback to halfback midseason. Martha Sullivan and Barbara Moss were strong on defense. It was Moss' first year on Varsity.

Next year's captains, Julie Thorner and Paige Thorner, can hope for a team as enthusiastic and together as this year's.

BOYS' SOCCER

Row 1 — J. Hand, M. Herrnstein, J. McGinty, B. Crichlow, S. Mellen (Capt.), R. Gettig, R. Russel, A. Treadwell, M. Okwu; Row 2 — Coach Dennehy, K. Forrest, J. Atkinson, W. Bellamy, S. Wales, J. The Boys' Varsity Soccer Team compiled a respectable but inconsistent record of 8-6-1. Although plagued by midseason losses, the team dominated in exciting home victories over Deerfield and Andover. The team progressed and strengthened through constant effort and unity, culminating the season with two decisive shutouts over Andover.

Team leaders were evident on all ends of the field. While John Hand and Werten Bellamy scored goals; Chip Mellen, John Jacobs, and Scott Mellen controlled play in the midfield. The defense, led by MVP Brooks Critchlow and Rich Russell, became a guiding force by the end of the season.

WATER POLO

Row 1 — C. Greenhalgh (Manager), K. Hook, B. Jezic, C. O'Dell (Capt.), C. Bitzer (Capt.) M. Notaro, C. Reid, H. Svensson; Row 2 — Coach Nekton, T. Reid, F. Smith, A. Debaubigny, K. Gibson, R. Savitt, J. Bouchard, J. Harding, E. Ketchum (Manager)

The 1980 Varsity Water Polo season was filled with many memorable moments: the van rides to Greenwich, Harvard, and Brown, the home opener overtime victory over Williams, the Exonian Faithful at their best, the Big Red Psyche Ball, the grill psyche sessions, Coach's Bible of Polo, and the polo hymn.

There were also some undesired experiences. The Brown game, referees not calling the game the way in which we had been taught, sprints in the old pool, the feeling after a day's practice. All these were hurdles, roadblocks which were overcome with perseverance, mind control, and teamwork. Each player giving his all, whether it be in practice, in a game, or on the sidelines supporting their teammates; this is what a team is all about. This is Exeter Polo. This is the 1980 New England Champions.

The Polo Hymn

Polo is the greatest sport
That we love to play
We will dream it in the night
And play it in the day
We will score one,
We will win one
We will score one,
we will win one
And we'll be the best
Team in the East
And we'll be the best
Team in the East.

The 1980-81 Girls' Basketball team was an impressive one. Four returning letter-earners: Leslie Hamilton, Heather Peters, Susie Jones, and Captain Anne Ready, provided coaches Bowes and Wharff with a solid foundation. Lisa Battan, Claire McEachern, and Pam Chu came up from J.V. and surprised heir teammates with their talent. The rest of the squad consisted of three new girls: Cornelia Buckley, Nicky Bunting and Haley Mason. The resulting team was skillful and enthusiastic. Each player improved remarkably by the season's end. The coaches worked with posts Anne Ready and Leslie Hamilton to keep Exeter's scoring and rebounding high while perimeters Haley Mason, Nicky Bunting, and Susie Jones learned to work the ball and run the team superbly. Six players will be returning next winter, providing Coach Bowes with another strong and experienced team.

Girls' Ice Hockey

EXETER
EXETER

This year's Girls' Ice Hockey team had its first year of real depth, unlike past years in which two or three girls were strongly counted on. This year, with a large team of good skaters, we had to learn real teamwork.

From the start, the team was plagued with injuries and sickness; the lines were constantly rearranged and different combinations were tried. Midseason, Senior Christi Horton was put out by a knee injury and Lowere goalie Caroline Gillespie attempted to ward off illness. Newcomer Upper Abby Reed did well in the goal, with help from the well-matched defense twins Heather and Jennifer (tri-captain) Steans, and of Chris Goodspeed and Leslie Thomas.

Uppers Jess Truslow (tri-captain) and Lee Dillenbeck were a speedy combination, scoring a lot of Exeter's goals. Other fast skaters were Seniors Jane Silverson and Laura Cushman (tri-captain).

Truslow and Dillenbeck will be a strong base for next year's team. Many other players will also be returning. Among them: aggressive Julie Thorner; Amy Woodbridge, two-year veteran already; Robin Steans, younger sister of the defense twins; Lydia Smith will hopefully be returning to the ice again after a year in Spain; Celia and Maria Morgan, yet another set of twins; Jocelyn Miller, and Senior Eva Gonda all contributed to the Red depth.

Even more encouraging are the Lowers who have two more years to play for the Red: Lynnley Browning, Lisa Hertz, and Caroline Gillespie should all be watched closely.

Without the great coaching, however, the depth and good skating would have been useless. Coaches Marty Taft and Charlie Pratt pushed us further than we thought we could go. Because of specialized drills and sprints, we were in good physical shape, and outskated nearly all the teams we played. Additional help was provided by alumnae Nancy Wilder and Susan King, with managerial help from Eleanor Ahlborn.

The Girls' Hockey Program on the whole is rapidly expanding. This year alone, including Club, there were three times more girls skating than last year. Next year there will be even more.

Boys' Hockey

The Exeter Varsity Boys' Hockey team had a relatively successful season despite the fact that the team skated only two lines and four defenseman. Chip Kuzborski was the back bone of the defensive cops with consistently stingy goaltending including spectacular games against St. Paul's, Andover, and Mt. Hermon. On defense Mark Goggin, Scott Borek, and Peter Anastos along with Kuzborski made Exeter's defensive game steady and successful. Offensively the Big Red has relied heavily on veteran captains Troy Miksen and Tom Daccord who were also effective. Mike Kozub, Chris Johnson, Mike Stephens and Tim Hickey also contributed greatly to the team effort with timely goals and assists. Unfortunately leftwing John Hand's injured back hindered the Red's offensive punch.

Overall hard work, team play and solid two-way hockey was Exeter's showing throughout the season which enabled them to improve with each game. Returning preps David Wheeler and Craig Margain, Steve Therrien along with Moe Villenueve, and Jim Lavery should provide experience for exciting hockey in the future.

GIRL'S SQUASH

Despite the past frustrating years of squash, it looks like it was all worth it. With an impressive winning record of 6-1 so far this season, the #3 girl, Jean McAndrews, is undefeated; Sue Safford, the #4 girl, hasn't lost a game yet and at #5, Barbara Moss has only lost once so far. Our one loss was to our arch rivals the Andies, who, by the way, bear the Choaties! Since our team is so close in ability, I hope this year we can capture 3rd or 4th place in the Interschols.

But now, I must mention the high point of the squash season — the Bicentennial Squash Trip to Philadelphia! It was even co-ed! We had a marvelous time down there, meeting the alumni (and beating them too!), and playing area teams. I hope this can be repeated next year since it was so successful. My special thanks to Mr. Brandes for making it possible.

Well, I hope this has made up for all the articles we didn't get in the "Exonian"!

Best of Luck to next year's team!

Hilary

BOYS' SQUASH

This year's Varsity Squash team had the unbeatable combination of strength, depth, and experience. Led by three returning lettermen — Jim Faulkner, Craig White, and Jim Drougas — from last year's top five, the team made history twice by shutting out Andover 7-0 and by beating a college varsity team (4-1 over Bowdoin).

Next year, however, will be a rebuilding season with only Lower sensation Sven Krogius returning from the top five. Krogius will be backed by many experienced players, and Coach Werner Brandes feels optimistic about the 1981-82 team.

Girls' Swimming

The girl's varsity swimming team led by captains Margot Schwartz and Jennifer Chase had an amazingly good year, considering their loss of several seniors from the previous year, but they maintained the tradition of NEGS. Each event's strength was attributed to Mrs. Nekton's ability to create a well-rounded team and NEGS.

Becky Nevitt, Eleanor Ketchum, Dorothy Murray, Barb Jenny, and NEGS made waves in the sprinting events. Barbi Jones, Katherine Smith, Sarah Pelmas and NEGS showed their endurance in the 500. Breaststroke was swum by Jennifer Chase, Jennifer Harris, Amy Gilcreast, and NEGS. Johanna Thomas, Sarah Decosse, Stephanie Hertig and NEGS starred in the backstroke. Laura Schwartz, Kirstin Scott and NEGS flew in the butterfly. Rachel Nevitt, Margot Schwartz and NEGS showed versatility in the I.M. Veteran divers Amy Walker, Naomi Vogel, Laurie Frankel, NEGS, and rookies Betsy Farnum and NEGS had some excellent performances this year.

We would like to thank Mrs. Nekton, Miss Choate, and especially NEGS for holding this team together. NEGS FOREVER!

Boys' Swimming

Front Row — D. Hoag, K. Moon, R. Russell, M. Dyer, C. Bitzer, G. Lutes, J. Atkinson, A. Svenson. Second Row — E. Morse, T. Reid, A. Scriven, S. Bachofen, B. Savitt, R. Donnelly, C. Jolik, W. Dyer. Third Row — Coach Nekton, B. Games, B. Manning, M. Timlake, G. Baxter, M. Snow, P. Stevens.

The 1980-81 boys' swim team was one of the strongest swim teams, depth-wise, that Exeter has had. The team held a solid 6-2 record going into the interschols which leads us to hope that, with the help of a few other teams, the BIG RED WAVE will dominate in the year of our bicentennial.

The team's preparation exceeded the intensity of all preceeding teams and in so doing set a new record on January 14, 1981 for the most yards in one practice when everyone went over 11,000 yards and a few even reached 12,000 (480 lengths.) Through dedication, team spirit, (hindered by the loss of Co-captain Mike Notaro, thanks P.E.A. fac) and hard work, which included swimming (as rumor has it!) more than the track team ran, the team learned its strengths and became more than just another team. Our only losses were suffered to Dartmouth and Deerfield, and Mr. Nekton thought I'd say, uh, maybe green is not our color this year? Well, we'll see what happens when that small green puddle enters the great sea of red on March 7, 1981.

Next year's team looks like it will carry on the strong tradition of "the wave" with returning lettermen Savitt, Scriven, Timlake, W. Dyer, and Baker. Nevertheless they will suffer a loss with the graduation of seniors Mike Notaro, Mac Dyer, James Atkinson, Dave Hoag, Keith Moon, Anders Svenson, Gary Lutes, and Richard Russell. Let us not forget the birth of the BIG RED WAVE!

BOY'S TRACK

1981 was a great season for the winter track team. The team was undefeated on the high school level going into the last meet, having only narrowly lost to Harvard and Dartmouth J.V. Every member of the team worked hard in practices and meets and team spirit was high. Outstanding performances included Brian Donahue's school record breaking 61'2" in the shot put and Sean Lawlor's Hall-of-Fame mile performances. There were also Jeremy Baldwin's Hall-of-Fame pole vaults as well as high jumps by Dominic Heffel and Matt Dubois that also merited Hall-of-Fame. But it was the team's depth and enthusiasm and the ability of everyone to contribute to his potential and more that won the eight straight victories. The whole team is optimistic for a strong spring and returning underclassmen Barber, Campbell, Gill, Hackett, Heffel, Jungheim, Kierstead, Martin, Putnam, Ward and Welles look forward to an even better year in '82.

Important Changes in 1912 Football Rules

The field of play is 100 yards in length instead of 110. End zones of 10 yards in length have been added to either end of the field, making the total length 120 yards. Kick-off takes place from kicker's 40-yard line instead of at mid-field. After a touchback ball is put in play at 20-yard line instead of the 25-yard line. The team with the ball has 4 downs instead of 3 to gain the required 10 yards. The 20 yard restriction on forward passes has been removed. A forward pass may be thrown any distance, even into the end zone, but not over the end line. The onside kick has been eliminated. The office of field judge has been eliminated. Scoring counts: touchdown, 6 points; goal from touchdown, 1 point; goal from field, 3 points; safety, 2 points; forfeited game score 1 point.

CLASS OF 1983

For the past nine months the 238 members of the lower class have been held captive at P.E.A. Now, hours within a breakthrough class-rep Doug Smith with the aid of sister Katherine disguised themselves as camels and broke into the academy compound. They have compiled the following list of events which took place during captivity:

Day 1. Peter Getty and Steve Forcione paid way to freedom.

2. Adam Guettel and Johanna Thomas escaped to the Canadian embassy along with Liddy Dabney. The latter having run off with a mountie.

9. John Leake tried to pole vault over the wall, but he was hit by an errant Greg Bankoski pass. He landed on Jeff Van Fossen who was wrestling both Adam Reeder and a pig, while doing a Spock imitation.

15. Sven Krogius got lost trying to discover his true self.

23. Avery Coleord and Graham Anderson were caught and hung up by their G-strings for trying to radio a message home. Their transmission came out as an ad for J.C. Penney construction lingerie.

24. Miranda Hope and Kathy Ward bought a pair for Larry Sullivan.

50. Jai Chandrasekhar tried to convince the militants they were too conservative and was thrown to vicious whales living in nuclear contaminated water.

51. Barbie Jones trying to swim home was eaten by the same gang of whales.

99. U.S.A. (United Skoal Association) attack force made up of Roberto Colon, Edgoubeaux, Rob Lionette, Mike Baxter, Max Arswandt, Art Mezzulo, Captain Copenhagen Lamon, and Happy Days Bright crashed in a rescue attempt. They are now recovering on spitoon island.

100. Moffit Timlake and Chris Jungheim were forced to play Russian Roulette by traitors Marc Taubman and Steve Del Cardayre. In a scuffle all got killed. Yuk! Yuk!

135. Tessa Vickers and Kathy Parkinson killed themselves. Their hair turned gray during the ordeal and they could no longer say they were represented by the three Bs. Beautiful, buxom, and blonde.

141. Liz MacKethan, Cornelia Buckley, Lisa Arthur provided nightly entertainment by singing "jungle Love" with appropriate accompanying gestures.

163. Heidi Dick and Molly Dyke were sacrificed to appease Exonian love-god Lew Kunkel.

183. Andy Kim, Fox Smith, and Rick Travers all got tattooes on their chests. They said: So you suck! Don't worry about it. Your mama! Face!

191. Dexter Lawson was shipped home, having suffered physical and mental abuse at the hands of his classmates.

203. Ice melted.

217. Dorothy Beattie, Emily Koch, Cincy Fuguet, Liz Gardiner, Natalie Dohrmann, Rachel Nevitt, and Mary Glasser all had inferiorty complexes. They discovered Allah, changed their names to Muhammad, and now run the Malcolm X fan club.

221. The "Amen Girls" vied with the "Bancroft Girls" for positions as concubines to the Ayatollah. No word yet. No wonder.

234. Vikki Chandler, Bea Trowbridge, Kristin Bowman, Tracie Edwards, and Nikki Bunting ran off with Dana Weeder and Jack Vasiliou, and Jack, Dan and Jim. Hiccup.

247. Louise Dwight and Jean McAndrews became entangled with guerillas who attend T.T.F.W., Iran's own P.G. university.

259. Bye Guy! From Albert.

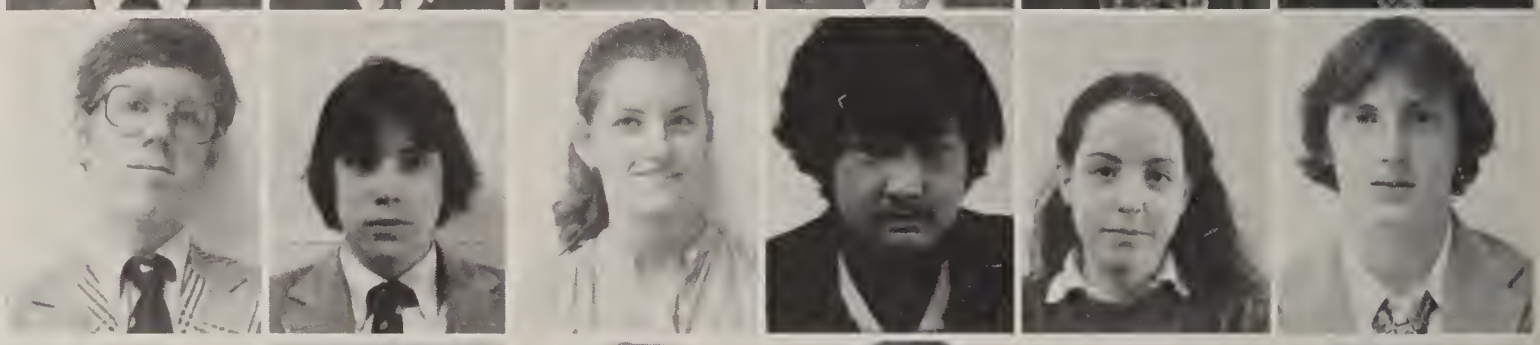

Skinny ambassadors Andrew Ramsay and Ceil Fallon await the hostages on the Virgin Islands where everyone will vacation for three months.

CLASS OF 1982

. . . And I guess it happened because of two or three years of total submission. On one clear spring night the Upper class turned a typical, passive, morose, and gossip-filled grill night into total chaos. Andrew Slade and Andy Hatch were the first to unite the rebel forces as they shouted in wierd frenzy about unity in the gutters and searching for the stars. Marvin Putnam saw his opportunity to tell his mates that he couldn't promise an unorganized rebellion only to be upstaged by Mark Johnson who stood on the cashier preaching about something arcane. Brock Harris almost tackled him for standing on his french fries. Janet Pofcher and Sue Pritchard were beaming from cheek to cheek — they thought the whole thing was oh so cute. At about then Julie and Paige Thorner pranced into the siege. Lea Ward was awed when she saw them, moaning "Wow Man, Wow," — she thought she was seeing doubles. Polly Firestone asked Lea to help her molest some males. The whole take-over was really sparked when Andrea Viera strutted in — her hair producing the energy. In fact it knocked Ted Schillinger into Norm's shaking hands. Molly King stood on a table and attempted to entertain the crowd with a scene from Casablanca, but Phil Stockton ripped off her clothes and kindly informed her that this was his show. Chip Mellen found it hard to join the rebel forces as he was preoccupied — burping a short prep with freckles. Soon afterwards, Sam Korsak and Sally Funkhouser ran by claiming that a tail of eager men were chasing them. They ran towards the lemonade stand and planned their next stratagem. Sam was convinced that they could hide inside the orange juice machine. As if that wasn't enough, Tom Dulaney gave Deb D'Arcangelo his own ideas on how Playboy could produce a more efficacious and stimulating response for the avid reader. Deb promptly attempted to fit in the O.J. machine with Sam and her buddy. Nina Russel and Mark Rounds were playing physiology under the counter, while Thalia Kallas, Jen Barth and others witnessed in horror. Bill Stokes put two aspirin in their frappes and told them not to worry about it. Bob Weston and Tim Flaherty were playing one on one with a piece of paper and a trash can when James Schaeffer's head appeared from the debris. Sarah Good told him that he was disgusting, but he exclaimed that he was merely playing a simple game of hide and seek. Meanwhile Michael Winslett was playing a furious piece on an organ as Chip Beckett tried in vain to teach him some more contemporary tunes. Sara Heussler was writing on the wall, but no one bothered her except Robert Marlowe who was tugging on her shirt and pleading that she write about New Jersey. As the chaos continued more Uppers filed in to further the cause of the rebellion. Omar Amirana, Bob Hackett, and Mike Okwu entered the scene and were noticed by Stephen Reilly and Dave Walden who wondered why Okwu wasn't in chains. Frank Visconti and Nancy Carson were selling leather goods by the entrance, but they didn't have the right size for John Burbank and Chris Pompa. Despite the missing juke box, Gary Shapiro and Alicia Macri were dancing a dizzy tango while Richter Hartig watched with glee, tossing his hats in the air and catching them on his head. As the emotion increased it seemed that perhaps the chaos was coming to an end — anyway it was almost nine o'clock. Eric Steel told Per Jebsen, who sat next to him, that he was certain he could have organized a more efficient and constructive rebellion, but Per wasn't listening; he didn't deal with such trivial rebellions. He just sat there staring out the window, pondering his scheme to take over the world.

CLASS OF 1981

President Tom Clark is holding a banquet for members of his high school class to raise money for his favorite project — a chemical, that, when introduced into the environment, will cause all those with communistic or anti-American tendencies to annihilate instantly. Attendance is mandatory and dissenters will be shot.

A crowd is beginning to gather — many Exies from McConnell and Merrill have arrived early, hearing that free drinks are being served. Ashok Chandrasekhar comes in but leaves at 8:00, explaining that he's still on Restrictions. Harriet Leach nods sagely. In a corner, Kimberly Roller is dancing slowly on top of a piano; Charlie Bitzer looks on and brags about how he can get his hair to stay curly even in the wintertime. John Hill is unimpressed. Jon Kiger appears, carrying a gun, and demands that Mike Johnson return all the albums he stole from WPEA. Lyle Crowley looks on nearby snickering and explaining to Sarah Lyall how he managed to graduate from Yale Law School without ever attending a class; Tom Ching takes notes. Josh Rubin runs in hysterically behind Bruce Springsteen, whom he has been pursuing since high school graduation; Bruce has meanwhile married Julia Hunt, who has traded in her monogram sweaters for punk jeans and greasy hair. Mary Williamson careens in, giggling erratically, and trips over a lump in the rug that turns out to be Paul Klebnikov. Paul apologizes for taking up her space and explains that he was just thinking — Andy Bernard asks him if he has any plans for the summer. Bill Henry, unaffected by the whole scene, spits into a cup. Greg Daniels and Tony Gardner arrive, arguing furiously about the relative philosophical merits of Nietzsche translations from German to Russian while Bill Sherman sets odds on which will out-argue the other. John Alban forms a committee to look into the problem; only Caroline Rosborough volunteers. Bill Whipple and Peter Wetherbee strum guitars peacefully in the corner next to Mike Worthington, who compares cocktails with Jonathan Bean. Leigh Polk runs in, chased by a crowd of men; she hides behind Brian Donahue, who fights them off easily. Leslie Thomas and Sarah Ecker exchange caustic witticisms. Luanne Gunderson, Barbara Sprague, and Denise Bricker grow tired of the scene and leave for Ault's.

Rich Podos, wearing dark glasses and carrying pen and paper in case anyone wants autographs, struts in: he is hotly pursued by a flock of Central Park pigeons clamoring to get their feathers back. "Too tacky," sniffs Alexandra Frangos, she and Sally Brown, unable to find mirrors, look at each other. Sarah Binger sees the pigeons and, feeling for their miserable condition, begins to cry. Members of the Langdell buttroom compare and contrast sexual techniques they have learned recently, and Marie Pleus leaves in disgust. Marjorie Schlaijker arrives from Hollywood with her press agent. Lynn Guggenheimer tries to be mean, and Barbara Moss tries to be quiet: they both fail. Keith Moon has an identity crisis. Jimmy Atkinson and Naomi Vogel try to out-laugh each other in the corner; Datus Proper uses his calculator to measure the degree of hysteria in their voices. Paul Monahan crawls in, explaining that he has not slept in twenty years, as he still has to turn in his Humanities paper. Jon Gifford pours coffee on him to keep him awake. Chris Giddings can't stop smiling. Lisa Jacobson and Maura Caffrey arrive from the Carribbean, where they are stationed as Town and Country Magazine correspondents; they leave when they see Troy Miksen beating one of Podos' pigeons over the head with a hockey stick. Mark Baughan urges him on, and Mike Morrissey recites to Kathy Jaffin, who is getting sick, one hundred ways to be sexually perverted with a dead pigeon. Clare Johnson looks angelic and says filthy things; Anne Ready laughs until Frank Durgin asks her to be quiet, as he is meditating. Sidney Bogardus asks how one can look intelligent; Gary Lutes explains.

Alice was beginning to get very tired of sitting by her sister on the bank and of having nothing to do! Once or twice she had peeped into the book her sister was reading, but it had no pictures or conversations in it, "and what is the use of a book," thought Alice, "without pictues or conversations?" So she sat up, with eyes closed, and half believed herself in Wonderland, though she knew she had but to open them again, and all would change to reality,

If anybody wanted to tell me something they'd have to write it on a piece of paper and shove it over to me. They'd get bored as hell doing that after a while, and then I'd be through with having conversations for the rest of my life. Everybody's think I was just a poor deaf-mute bastard and they'd leave me alone. I'd build me a little cabin somewhere with the dough I made and live there for the rest of my life. I'd build it right near the woods, but not right in them because I'd want it to be sunny as hell all the time.

You think your eye sweeps about a wide horizon, perhaps, in truth you are only looking around the interior of your tub. You cannot lift yourself to its rim and see the outer world of things, and at the same time see yourself. You are submerged in the tub of yourself — Taboos and rules and appearances, are the staves of you tub. Break them and dispel the witchcraft of thinking your tub is life! And that you know life!

"We are hearing much Greek wisdom this morning, King," said the Priest. "It is very subtle. But it brings no rain and grows no corn; sacrifice does both. Much less does it give them understanding of holy things. I, King, have dealt with the gods for three generations of men, and I know that they dazzle our eyes and flow in and out of one another like eddies on a river, and nothing that is said clearly can be said truly about them. Holy wisdom is not clear and thin like water, but thick and dark like blood."

The Priest has been with me. I never knew him before. He is not what the Fox thinks. Do you know, Sister, I have come to feel more and more that the Fox hasn't the whole truth. Oh, he has much of it. It'd be dark as a dungeon within me but for his teaching. And yet . . . I can't say it properly. He calls the whole world a city. But what's a city built on? There's earth beneath . . .

In respect, to these changing times, this offering of our creative efforts is presented to acquaint man with his many brothers and sisters around the world. We live so close, yet so far away, fear has been our separator.

We live now in a new age dawning upon computer technology, higher consciousness, higher elevation of space, and higher ideas. In this age the true essence of sharing should be acknowledged.

It is time for man to understand that we share the same sun, and we are all essentially the same with different names. All around the world the most enjoyed vibration is that of a smile. Through our smiles we touch the heart of our fellow man. Together, let's lift our planet to a higher vibration. In love we stand.

Happiness runs in circular motions;
Love is like a little boat on the sea.
Everybody is a part of everything anyway,
You can have it if you let yourself be.
Happiness runs, happiness runs.
And drop a smile palling in the hall
But there are no laughs left
Because we laughed them all
And we laughed them all
In a very short time

A cold coming we had of it,
Just the worst time of the year
For a journey, and such a long journey;
The ways deep and the weather sharp,

Arriving at the place;
It was (you might say) satisfactory.

For humanity — Rieux knew what those jubilant crowds did not know but could have learned from books; that the plague bacillus never dies or disappears for good; that it can lie dormant for years and years in furniture and chests; that it bides its time in bedrooms, cellars trunks and bookshelves; and that perhaps the day would come when, for the bane and the enlightening of men, it would rouse up its rats again and send them forth to die in a happy city. — Camus

That was when I learned that words are no good; that words don't ever fit what they're trying to say at . . . I would think how words go straight up in a thin line, quick and harmless, and how terribly doing goes along the earth, clinging to it, so that after a while the two lines are too far apart for the same person to straddle from one to the other and that sin and love and fear are just sounds that people who never sinned nor loved nor feared have for what they never had and cannot until they forget the words . . . because people to whom sin is just a matter of words, to them salvation is just words too.

Then what is good? The obsessive interest in human affairs, plus a certain amount of compassion and moral conviction, that first made the experience of living something that could be translated into pigment of music or bodily movement or poetry or prose or anything that is dynamic or expressive — that's what's good for you if you're at all serious in your aims. William Saroyan wrote a great play on this theme, that purity of heart is the one success worth having. "In the time of your life — live it!" That time is short and it doesn't return again. It is slipping away while I write this and while you read it, and the monosyllable of the clock is Loss, Loss, Loss, unless you devote your heart to its opposition.

Although we are by all odds the most social of all social animals — more interdependent, more attached to each other, more inseparable in our behavior than bees — we do not often feel our conjoined intelligence. Perhaps however, we are linked in circuits for the storage, processing and retrieval of information, since this appears to be the most basic and universal of all human enterprise. It may be our biological function to build a certain kind of hill. We have access to all the information of the biosphere, arriving as elementary units in the stream of solar photons. When we have rearranged against randomness to make, say, springtails, quantum mechanics, and the late quartets, we may have a clearer notion how to proceed. The circuitry seems to be there, even if the current is not always on. — Lewis Thomas

Four year boys unite! Hey Vashooey we did it! You still owe me from backgammon. Lots of fun for four years — Bazookas — The still — etc. Take it easy, okay Mark?

Thanx Mom and Dad — couldn't have done it without you and your love — I guess you understand. And all that gas — but don't worry it's my turn to drive now.

Hey Dana and Keith — take it easy and don't fight too much. Later, OK dudes?

I'll see you later Mr. Snow . . . thanx for being there.

LEP — I'll see you someday . . . I hope.

No hard feelings CPR, RWM. See ya MEP, JD, JRD, ASC, DLP, CHT, AEGW, MLK, RCM, Mr. C, Mr. D

All's well that ends well — Bye Ya'll . . .

I think it is the time to thank those who have to taught me to live by this moral of Berton Braleys. I must say though, that while showing me how to deal with defeat they are the ones that kept me winning.
Without my "Team" I would never have made it this far!
Special thanks to Mom and Dad, to Cookie, Tom and the "Ruderdudes" who were surely the most valuable players, and to all those who cheered me on throughout the race. PEA was a good "race" to be in and it has prepared me well for the "big regatta" called life. See you all there!

Behold the beauty in the fire of a sunset, and Let the glorious flames of passion incite your heart.
Do not let the others shape or crush your spirit, for
It is in keeping the spirit alive and in
Being true to it that we find meaning to existence.

Search for happiness not in possessions or knowledge, but
In the sincere smile of a fellow man.
Follow your feelings, for
They perceive what your mind cannot.
Walk away from that which confines you;
Be free.

A red bird walked through a field in its search for the best seeds. I went down his throat and tried to escape for a long time. But I met yellow seed and we became friends. Many seeds fought the germs, and some the alligator-enzymes. The yellow seed and I shoveled and snowshoed across four year, it seemed, and we learned about nature and life, though he wouldn't let me borrow his Biology book. / My friend graduated in the middle of a gluey mass. I watched him float down, almost out of sight; then the bird strained, and with my first wiff of reality, I floated down too. We germinated separately, into Pine trees. And the blonde and brunet are very high, and we see each other sometimes.

"Who are You?" said the Caterpillar.

This was not an encouraging opening for a conversation. Alice replied, rather shyly, "I — I hardly know, Sir, just as present — at least I know who I was when I got up this morning, but I think I must have been changed several times since then."

"What do you mean by that?" said the Caterpillar, sternly. "Explain yourself!"

"I don't see," said the Caterpillar.

Then what is good? The obsessive interest in human affairs, plus a certain amount of compassion and moral conviction, the first made the experience of living something that must be translated into pigment or music or bodily movement or poetry or prose or anything that's dynamic and expressive — that's what's good for you if you're at all serious in you aims. William Saroyan wrote a great play on this theme, that purity of heart is the one success worth having. "In the time of you life — Live live!" That time is short and it doesn't return again. It is slipping away while I write this and while you read it, and the monosyllable of the clock is Loss, Loss, Loss, unless you devote your heart to its opposition.

THE SPIRIT OF EXETER by Sarah Lyall

When I was young, it seemed that life was so wonderful,
A miracle, oh it was beautiful, magical.
And all the birds in the trees, well they'd be singing so happily.
Joyfully, playfully watching me.
But then they sent me away to teach me how to be sensible, logical, responsible, practical.
And they showed me a world where I could be so dependable, clinical, intellectual, cynical.
There are times when all the world's asleep,
The questions run too deep,
For such a simple man.
Won't you please, please tell me what we've learned
I know it sounds absurd.
But please tell me who I am.

— Supertramp, The Logical Song

In the wintertime, it gets darker and darker and bleaker, and you don't think it'll ever end. You take a shower at 6:00 in the morning, as arctic winds gust through the bathroom, the shower curtain flaps and snaps against your goose-bumped legs, and you can't get warm: someone flushes one of the toilets, and the water suddenly turns scalding. You dodge the burning stream when it then turns icy-cold; getting out of the shower, you try to wrap the postage-stamp-sized academy towel around you, and you freeze because someone's opened the window to de-steam the mirrors.

"Who the hell opened the window?" You slip on the puddles your shower has created on the floor, and fumble numbly with the window: it is frozen open, or seems to be. You curse again, run dripping out of the bathroom, down the hall — whistling with draft — into your room, over the crumpled papers scattered on your floor, get under your electric blanket, which is turned on High. You push last night's remnants — your Bio textbook, the English version of the French play you're reading, a spoon, a red pen that's spreading ink all over your sheets, half an apple, some unintelligible History notes — and pull the blanket over your head. Your toes stick out of the bottom, like a turtle's: you curl them under, and close your eyes, resting from the trauma of waking after only two hours of sleep, realizing that all your energy was spent getting to and from the bathroom.

"It's not so important," — you begin to doze off, lulled into a false sense of priority by the warm, cozy, little blue world under your blanket — "I'll just sleep a little bit more . . ."

Crash, shake, slap.

"LYALL! Get out of bed! Come on — it's ten of eight!"

"What's wrong." Mumble, mumble. You know, but you resist. "Don't wanna wake up. Tired."

She yanks your blanket up, throwing it on the floor and leaving you exposed and shivering on the bed. Pull, wrench, kick.

"Okay! Lord." You open an eye, look at the clock. "Damn! It's ten of eight — how could you let me sleep so long?"

Throw some clothes on — yesterday's they're closest to the bed; grab some books, a piece of paper, a pen (pencils aren't acceptable). Wait — you forgot your eye drops, your Kleenex. Your hair isn't brushed. It's still wet. Your shoes aren't tied, that's okay, run to class on nonexistent energy, as your friend feeds your coffee on the way. You make it.

Exeter is something you live through. It's not a fun-and-frolic, let's-dance-around-the maypole type of place: it's a serious place, although not to the point of being completely oppressive or overwhelming. It's, rather, a combination of all sorts of things. It has moments of pure joy, and moments of pride, and moments of despair and disillusionment.

People complain a lot at Exeter, about everything — the food, the teachers, the work, the rules, the heaters — and sometimes the complaints seem justified as the New England winter darkens and freezes, so everything around us seems grey and cold. We grow exhausted from too little sleep, and everything seems to be working against us — our teachers make sarcastic, embarrassing comments when we can't answer in class, we're given unexcused absences when we're just three minutes late for assemble, our Dorm head yells at us because we forget to check in. Our work seems impossible: it's hard enough to keep up, let alone to get good grades. We go to dances on weekends, and everyone else seems to have a boyfriend or girlfriend.

Why, then, if it seems so cold and unyielding, do we stick it out? Why do we endure the indignity of having a teacher in the dining hall go out of her way to trap us in a violation of the dress code, why do we suffer through consistent '50's' on our math tests?

Exeter's redeeming qualities more than redeem it. It has outward fineness: proud New England buildings, fine faculty who love teaching, wonderful kids who are each unique and whose uniqueness exposes us to a variety of perspectives and opinions. And it has an inward fineness, but this is undefinable, harder to pinpoint, and completely individual: Exeter's inner fineness is as unique to each person who comes here as they are unique.

I remember once, when I was a Lower, new and young and scared, when I was starting to realize that Exeter wasn't going to be as effortlessly wonderful as I'd anticipated. Somehow, I'd managed to get six unexcused absences (three of them were late slips): I was summoned to the Dean's Office, yelled at by Mrs. Herney, and given until the next morning to pull together a statement to present to the Attendance Committee so I could avoid Probation.

I went back to my dorm, frightened, sure that I was a failure and that I'd be forever branded as a bad, irresponsible person. As I trudged the stairs up to my room I passed Lydia, a Senior. I admired her and was terrified of her: she was brilliant, calm, and confident.

"Sarah — are you okay? You look a little blue," she said.

"Thanks, I'm all right." I looked at my feet and hurried past her.

That night she came up to my room with a cup of mint tea and a spoonful of honey. I was sitting on my floor, surrounded by papers and books, trying to write an English paper and my statement and to study for a math test, all at once. Lydia sat down beside me; then she stayed with me the entire night, helping me write my statement and typing my English for me. At five in the morning, she tucked me into her bed — she preferred sleeping on the floor, she claimed — and at 7:45 she gave me some clothes to wear and made sure I got to my first period class. She had neglected all of her own work.

Friends like Lydia, pure, wonderful friends, who give because they love you and not because they expect anything in return, are one of the most special things about Exeter. Because it is a boarding school, your friends become your family: you're immersed in their company all the time and can't help growing immeasurably close to them.

You wake up on your Birthday and find that your door has been completely covered over with newspaper; you open your P.O. Box, and handfuls of M&M's spill out onto he floor; you return to your room to find candy strewn everywhere and a new lamp sitting by your bed. At dinner your table sings "Happy Birthday" to you, and you know you're loved.

But in class, it's completely different: you can't get away with anything just because you might be a nice person. The work is hard, both in terms of the time you must put into it, and it must be done. Exeter makes you question everything: you begin in class, when you find that you can't trust an author you thought was infallible. You learn that historical textbooks are sometimes biased, and that every philosopher can refute flawlessly the argument that opposes his — you question television, the newspapers, your teachers, the administration, the purpose of life, and finally yourself. You can't get through Exeter without thinking.

But as you learn that things aren't simple as you hoped they'd be, you grow and you turn outward. You live through Exeter, and you realize how much you'd have missed if you'd lived without it.
